Board of Health.

EPPING, N. H., February 15, 1901.

To the Selectmen of the Town of Epping:

In accordance with custom, the Board of Health, of Epping, respectfully submits the following as their report for the year just closed:

The general health of the town has been in the main equal to the average of the last few years.

We have suffered from no epidemic during the year, although its beginning found quite a number of cases of measles, from the after complications of which The Great Reaper claimed a victim or two.

Several cases of scarlatina and a few of diphtheria appeared in different parts of the town, but were confined to the families where they originated.

We have, with our shifting population, been highly favored in that we had no case of variola, as have Somersworth, Pittsfield, Manchester and some other towns. But the board has been unremitting in their endeavors to protect our community from the ravages of this loathsome disease.

Early in the summer, acting under instructions from the Secretary of the State Board, we called the attention of the School Board to the law relating to vaccination of school children, and had posted in the various school buildings, copies of the law and instructions to the teachers. In conjunction with the Selectmen, large numbers of the pupils were vaccinated at the expense of the town.

The expenses of the board have been heavier than usual, but the results to the town and its citizens cannot fail to be such as to warrant the additional outlay.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

To the inhabitants of the town of Epping interested in school affairs:

The close of another year calls for a report of the condition, advancement and faults of our schools.

The object of a school report is to give to the citizens and parents correct information regarding the management and progress of their schools during the year just closed. It is a prevailing custom in such reports for the Committee to speak in approval of all teachers under their charge, and congratulate the pupils upon their worthy achievements, leaving all others unnoticed.

Such a report may be helpful in the way of compliment to both scholars and teacher, yet it seems to us that a plain statement of facts would have a far greater tendency to improve their work for the following year.

Reasonable progress has been made in our schools for the past year, yet the improvement of all is not such as we would like to see, and not such as we should see.

The irregular attendance of scholars has long been a hindrance to the success of our schools, as reports of previous years will testify, and the past year has not been an exception in this matter.

The teachers employed during the past year have, for the most part, been efficient and successful in the discharge of their duties. Yet some, while possessed of a good education, lack the training necessary for the management of good schools, and, consequently, are not prepared to keep pace with the improved methods of the present time, and others are handicapped by lack of discipline, without which no school is a success.

Much of this could be improved if our schools were under the charge of a competent and trained superintendent, who could devote his entire time to their welfare and constantly remind teachers of their failures and suggest ways for improvement.

Such a man, if obtained in connection with other towns, as provided by the present law, would cost the town very little more at first, and, we doubt, if any more, after well established, than the present method of supervision by the School Board.

The fact that scholars in schools outside of the village are few in number is a hindrance to their success, and if such could be brought together and form larger schools better results could be obtained, as well as longer schools for the amount of money now expended. A glance at the statistics will show that the cost per capita of maintaining the outside schools is far in excess of the village schools.

An increased number of visits of parents in certain schools has, we think, been of value to all interested, and should be continued in the future as a means of help to scholar, teacher and Committee alike, and they are thus better qualified to act in school matters, having looked into the management for themselves.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN J. TILTON.
ALICE F. BROWN.

During the past year more interest has been manifested by the people generally in our public schools than ever before, which is positive proof that they are hungering and thirsting after education.

At the beginning of this school year some few failed to grasp at the true intentions of my endeavors to promote education, but we never can see the structure when the foundation is being laid.

Some expression has been made that Epping schools should not afford the same advantages as Exeter, Dover, Manchester and Concord, because we never have accomplished it, which in my opinion is all the more reason why we should bring the schools up to that high standard now. The pupils graduating from our schools have to meet and do business with pupils graduating from our neighboring schools, and unless they are equally qualified in education they must not expect to succeed. The thinking man has his fingers on the throttle of the universe.

Now how do our neighbors conduct their schools successfully? Is it not by having a thorough and systematic course of instruction and abiding by it—not deviating in one iota?

The people should elect members of the School Board in whom they have implicit confidence in their ability and honesty to conduct their schools; there should be teachers hired only in whom the School Board have this same confidence, and above all the pupils should be taught by the parents to have confidence and obey the teachers.

Each teacher should be responsible for the success and standing of all the pupils in the various schools in town, and unless they accomplish the attainments as required in the different grades, other teachers should be employed who can do the work. To allow a teacher to teach school without any fixed amount of work to accomplish and let the pupils learn what they may be able to by simply going through the routine and receive their pay for services is robbery and perfectly absurd.

In the past there have been no regular courses which teachers are compelled to go by—no rules and regulations, and not till this year were there any examinations to ascertain whether the pupils were fitted to enter the different grades; and as a result, last spring there were very few pupils in our High School who could pass decent examinations on the Grammar School subjects, and some could not pass the intermediate subjects.

All educated people and those interested in the future welfare of their children know such things should not exist.

We must know our A, B, C's before we can read, and our multiplication table before we can do fractions.

I believe some of these evils have been corrected, and if the above suggestions can be carried out and all children under fourteen years of age compelled to attend school, the most wonderful change imaginable can be accomplished in our schools this year.

Just one review back to the time Watson Academy was founded and our public schools became graded, must readily convince any one how our schools have degenerated. Then we had in the Academy fifty scholars, and the discipline and studies pursued how different from last spring. All must confess it is because we have had no fixed standard, but little by little our schools have gone lower and lower instead of higher and higher. Our schools must be built up or our children will sink likewise. Every dollar properly expended in education will return 100 per cent. and more, and it is the only salvation for the prosperity of our town and our homes.

Our children should be encouraged and stimulated to aspire to attain what constitutes true manhood and womanhood, and that is to be honest, intelligent and industrious, and aim to be a blessing and honor to themselves and mankind, without which motives it is possible to sink lower than the brutes and become a disgrace to ourself and mankind.

Respectfully submitted,

DANIEL W. LADD,

Member School Board.
